People buy from people they know, like and trust

Passionate with building trust, Pamela helps people have greater influence, impact and confidence in their business and careers. She has been a sought after speaker and mentor for over 25 years and a long-standing weekly columnist in The Belleville Intel, CHEK News Channel, NAHS Magazine, and Girl Warrior Productions.

Pamela is a PR Professional and the author of 'How to Start Life Again at 50' and an avid contributor to her weekly show 'The. Good Joy Podcast'.

Her superpower is her innate ability to see the gifts in others and goes to work to help them frame their message and identify gaps so they can shine and attract their ideal audience.

Pamela has a magic-like (mojo) ability to bring out the depth, clarity and profoundness of your professional self. After working with her my frustration and on-going inability to clearly state my business mission and how I helped others ended. With her guidance I was able to pivot, refocus and reinvent myself. I love that I'm now booking a steady stream of clients and landed my own TV show. ~ Ophelia Rigault | TV Host

Pamela Sylvan is a special kind of mentor. After years of spinning my wheels trying to figure out my why and what working with her has been a major breakthrough in my life. In 12 short weeks she helped me organize my dreams and goals by curating a method specific to my needs. She's the Brene Brown of my life. I and the world are very lucky to have such an amazing woman to lead us to our best selves.

~ Sophia Betegh | Professional Project Manager
